General Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, Thursday, Sept. 7 (AP)—Navy Catalina planes sank three small Japanese freighters off Mindanao, southern Philippines, Monday night and Tuesday morning, headquarters announced today.

Liberator bombers meanwhile continued the relentless neutralization of the airdromes around Davao, most important port in the southern Philippines, toward which Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces are aiming.

Simultaneously strong forces of Australian and American fighter bombers swept Vogelkop peninsula on Dutch New Guinea, hitting at Japanese positions. They did their work without encountering enemy opposition.

Bad weather hampered operations in other southwest Pacific sectors.

Boardwalk Blaze

Burns Whole Block
At Atlantic City

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 6 (AP)—Fire fed by bursting gas mains consumed an entire block of boardwalk stores and burned out five floors of the eight-story Hotel Knickerbocker before it was brought under control.

Damages were unofficially placed at $200,000.

The hotel management said 300 guests were helped into the street by servicemen stationed in the city and that none suffered injuries although many lost their personal belongings.

The front of the central pier across the boardwalk from the hotel was twisted and scorched by the heat. Western Union and brokerage wires were burned out by the fire. A sign bearing the name of the hotel survived the flames, but a collapsed building.

A policeman said there rumbled like thunder under boardwalk and a ball of fire rolled across the walk and ignited the hotel. The cause of the fire was undetermined.

The blaze was mastered after a three-hour battle in which six fire fighters received first aid.

Government Takes Over Idle Mines

Washington, Sept. 6 (AP)—On direction of President Roosevelt, the interior department took possession tonight of 15 more bituminous coal mines tied up by strikes of supervisory employees.

The mines are operated by nine companies in Pennsylvania and West Virginia, employ 5,100 men and have a daily production of about 27,000 tons.

Secretary Ickes announced that the mines will be opened for work Friday morning. He appointed high officials of the companies as federal operating managers.

THOUSANDS "DISAPPEAR"

Stockholm, Sept. 6 (AP)—An estimated 1,000 persons "disappeared" daily in Germany as the Nazi wave of terror and violence grows. It was reported tonight by a neutral informant just returned from the Reich.

THIRD ARMY CROSSES MOSELLE — A heavy battle is raging in the Moselle valley invasion corridor to Germany, where Americans have smashed through stiffening resistance to within four miles of Metz, key city on the French side of Hitler's Siegfried line. Below Metz a firm bridgehead has been established by the American Third Army, menacing the Reich border, while to the north the British Second and American First armies are driving toward other German border defenses.

Army Demobilization
To Start After V-Day

BY WILLIAM FRYE
Washington, Sept. 6 (AP)—The army announced today the methods it will use in demobilizing part of its strength after Germany is defeated, but there was every indication that the number of men released immediately would be small. Moreover, the navy emphasized that it planned no demobilization until Japan is beaten.

One highly placed person said by a "trickle" of soldiers would art home after V-day in Europe, largely because of the Pacific war's priority but also because the approved discharge basis—under which the men will be released individually and not by units—will be complicated and therefore slow.

TRAILER HOME
MURDER BAREDHusband Admits Killing
Wife At Van Dyke;
Suicide Fails

Detroit, Sept. 6 (AP)—Less than ten hours after the body of Mrs. Edith Manuel, 33, was found in her trailer home at Van Dyke, her husband, Virgil L. Manuel, 41, pleaded guilty in Macomb circuit court this afternoon to a charge of murder.

Circuit Judge H. Russell Holland, Oakland county judge sitting in the Macomb court, deferred sentence.

Manuel was arrested as he tried to break into a downtown building here this morning, and police then discovered he was seeking a means of suicide after having killed his wife.

The arrest was made by Patrolman Louis Schmidt who said Manuel told him he had slain his wife, and had meant to take his own life by leaping from a high window. Police said Mrs. Manuel had been beaten on the head and her throat was cut.

Detectives said Manuel related in a statement that he was angered because his wife had been "running around with other men." The couple came here about two years ago and were employed in war plants.

To police Manuel insisted he loved his wife. They said he claimed he could not help himself for his act and, apparently believing Michigan inflicted capital punishment as does his native Texas, pleaded "Get it over quick—give me the chair or hang me, whatever you do here."

Japs Gain In Drive
To Split Up China

Chungking, Sept. 6 (AP)—Kiang, guarding the route to the coveted airbase of Lingling near the southern Hunan province border, has fallen to the swift new Japanese drive, the Chinese high command announced tonight. A new enemy attempt to split China apparently was in full swing.

To determine priorities for discharges, the army will use a point system giving weighted credits for total months in the army, total months overseas, decorations and battle clasp indicating combat service, and dependent children.

The system, it was explained, will permit release of men serving in the Pacific as well as in Europe. Individuals considered "surplus" in the various theatres will be sent to manpower pools in this country. Then those with the highest priorities under the point system will be discharged first—provided they do not have qualifications which make them essential to the service.

The army said this discharge system was built in large part around the solicited suggestions of the fighting men themselves.

It said the Pacific war would take first priority in all calculations. Millions of men and millions of tons of equipment and supplies will be transferred to the Orient "to defeat Japan as quickly as possible, and permanently."

As the army announced its plan, the navy said that, far from starting demobilization after victory in Europe, it will still be increasing in strength.

Considerable study has been given the method of demobilization, Navy Secretary Forrestal reported, and in principle the navy agrees with the army's individual rating scheme, but "a final and precise blue print is not expected to be drawn until the defeat of Japan is at hand."

PROWLER USES
MYSTERY FUMESNine Persons Overcome
By Poison Sprayer
In Mattoon, Ill.

Mattoon, Ill., Sept. 6 (AP)—A mysterious "poison gas" sprayed through open bedroom windows by a night prowler, has prostrated nine persons in four days, and police today called upon University of Illinois chemists and the state crime laboratory for help in solving the bizarre case.

A new technique hospitalized the latest victim, Mrs. Carl Cordes, 45. She reported to police she merely had sniffed at a damp cloth found on her back porch last night.

"I felt as though I had had a charge of electricity go through me," she told her husband. A few minutes later her nose, throat and lips began to burn and her mouth became "terribly swollen," physicians said.

Police Chief Eugene Cole said the gas or vapor apparently has not put any of the victims to sleep, like an anesthetic. All the victims except one have been women and in each case the prowler has frightened away. The victims said they suffered from nausea and partial paralysis from 30 to 60 minutes after inhaling the fumes, which they described as having a "sickly, sweet odor."

SLAV BORDER
LINE CROSSED
BY RED ARMYJUNCTION IS MADE WITH FORCES OF
GEN. TITO

BY W. W. HERCHER

London, Thursday, Sept. 7 (AP)—The Red army has smashed across the Danube into Yugoslavia to join with the Yugoslav Partisans, Marshal Tito's radio station broadcast early today shortly after the nightly Russian communiqué had announced capture of Turnu-Severin, on the Romanian bank of the river.

The Russians did not announce a crossing into Yugoslavia, and Tito's broadcast gave no details, but the development was entirely reasonable, particularly since Moscow dispatches have said the Red army often has outrun official statements by ten miles or more. Tito's broadcast did not state that a junction had yet been made between his Partisans and the Russians, but the fact that he was able to announce the Russian arrival indicated some connection already existed.

News Can't Keep Up

The Danube is 4,000 feet wide at Turnu-Severin, but an inkling that a crossing may have been made by air was contained in a midnight Moscow dispatch from Associated Press Correspondent Eddy Gilmore who wrote:

"The Red army is employing large groups of parachutists in its lightning advance westward in an operation which promises soon to link up with Tito's forces."

He added that occupation of Turnu-Severin put the Russians 100 miles from Belgrade, Yugoslav capital, and a little over 140 miles from the Hungarian frontier, "but by the time this is in print, from the way the Russians are going, they will be considerably closer to both objectives."

Gain of 50 Miles

Paired with the spectacular dash of more than 50 miles westward in a single day in Romania, the Russians gave equal or greater mention to capture on the Polish front of the Narew river fortress of Ostroleka in a hard-slogging gain of two miles through some of the heaviest German defenses.

This victory, extending an outflanking movement against Warsaw and creating an ominous new threat to East Prussia, 26 miles northward, was won after five successive strong German counterattacks were beaten back, the Soviet communiqué said.

Two thousand Germans were killed in the counterattacks and another 300 more drowned as the Russians cleared out the whole east bank of the Narew, the Russians said.

The twin triumphs, widely contrasting in type and location, both presaged calamity for the Germans, whose radio commentators, apparently having written off the Balkans, took a far graver view of the offensive toward East Prussia and outflanking Warsaw.

Axis Disaster Near
In Po River Valley

BY NOLAN NORGAARD

Rome, Sept. 6 (AP)—The decisive battle for northern Italy on the broad stretches of the Po river valley appeared near tonight after Eighth army troops plunged within five miles of Rimini on the Adriatic coast and Americans on the opposite end of the front seized Lucca, provincial capital 10 miles northeast of Pisa.

Once Rimini is captured, Gen. Sir Harold Alexander will pour out onto the flatlands of northern Italy the greatest armored strike ing force ever assembled in the Mediterranean area to proceed with the annihilation of Field Marshal Gen. Albert Kesselring's armies.

Due south of Rimini Canadian forces crushed all Nazi counterattacks and carved out new positions only five miles from the city's outskirts. Other Eighth army units striking directly up the coast were reported less than six miles from their goal as enemy forces weakened considerably under combined blows by Allied ground troops, warships and planes.

Some of the fiercest fighting occurred around the key town of Coriano, seven miles south of Rimini and about two miles from the sea. Allied shock troops captured an important ridge running from Coriano to the coast and sent patrols for a time into the town itself.

The German First parachute division, which met the first assault of the Canadians below Rimini and tried desperately for nearly a week to stem the advance, was said to have been so mauled that it was relieved.

For the second day two British destroyers stood offshore and slammed more than 600 shells into German batteries and gun positions guarding Rimini. An Allied communiqué said several batteries were silenced. Return fire from enemy guns was described as ineffectual.

REAL BATTLE
IS UNDER WAYNAZI HOMETLAND TO BE IN RANGE OF
BIG GUNS SOON

BY WILLIAM F. BONI

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Thursday, Sept. 7, (AP)—The swift, Germany-bound drive of the U. S. Third army has been stalled for almost a week by lagging supplies, but in the north, American First army tanks in mass formations were on the move eastward toward Liege after leaping across the Meuse River and breaching the Nazis' Belgian defenses before the Reich, dispatches disclosed today.

The First army drive was along at least a 25-mile front, and supreme headquarters indicated it was operating from three secure bridgeheads over the Meuse at Namur.

Third Army Halted

Associated Press Correspondent Don Whitehead, with the First army, said the Yanks had started the real battle for Germany, and that as infantry and armor pushed relentlessly toward the Nazi homeland, the rate of advance soon would bring it within range of Allied big guns.

The Americans pured across the Meuse after rounding up hordes of Germans in the Mons trap. They stormed the river banks where the Germans were waiting in a midnight thrust Tuesday, and a battle raged all day. Whitehead wrote, "Some of the fighting, he said, was the hardest since the St. Lo breakthrough."

On the Americans' southern flank, supplies and necessity for regrouping stopped the Third army's swift drive toward the German border, and reinforced Nazis taking advantage of the lull have begun their first real stand since the Allied Normandy breakthrough, other front dispatches disclosed.

A heavy battle raged in the Moselle valley invasion corridor. An American mechanized cavalry column smashed through stubborn resistance to within four miles of Metz, key city on the French side of the Siegfried line. But as the Yanks closed in on the stronghold, every yard of ground was being contested bitterly.

Supplies Catch Up

After the enforced halt supplies finally have caught up with the Third army, but the Germans, fleeing in confusion a week ago, have had time to regroup and reorganize, front dispatches disclosed.

Associated Press Correspondent Wes Gallagher wrote from the front that temporarily, at least, the brunt of battle against the newly reinforced German strongpoints has been turned over to the ever-ready infantry, which must drive a wedge through which Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's armor once again can start German

FORDS INSPECT GLIDER PLANT

Also Visit Menominee River Hydraulic Installation

Iron Mountain—In a brief visit to the Kingsford glider plant of the Ford Motor company here Friday, Henry Ford, Detroit manufacturer, and his grandson, Henry II, toured the several departments of the plant, now 100 per cent in production, and visited the Ford hydraulics installation on the Menominee river, "with the view of possible future development," according to Mr. Ford, senior.

Straight, alert and obviously in good health, Mr. Ford talked only briefly about his visit. "We are looking over water power sites, with a view towards possible development, but I can say nothing specific about that now," he said. Asked about a probable post-war program for the Iron Mountain plant, Mr. Ford said the future would determine the nature of the Ford company's postwar activity, at River Rouge and its several branch plants. "We know very little about that right now," he added.

Plan For Future
"Principally, however, we look forward to reducing the hours of work, paying good wages and maintaining the same place in industry which the company has enjoyed in the past. We will work towards quick conversion to peacetime activity."

Henry Ford II, who was last here on June 21, when, on behalf of the glider plant officers and employees, he personally accepted the Army-Navy "E" award for excellence in war production, added little to what his grandfather said. "Just looking it over," he commented, briefly.

The auto magnate and his grandson, accompanied by Walter Nelson, Ford plant superintendent here, and C. Rouse, who is supervising the rebuilding of the Ford mill at Big Bay, had lunch this noon at Benzo's Grill, 625 South Stephenson, and returned to the plant for another brief inspection and conference before leaving in mid-afternoon to return to Mr. Ford's summer home at the Huron Mountain club near Big Bay.

Drunk Driver Pleads Guilty; Pays $58.25

Floyd Benson of North 20th street, Escanaba, pleaded guilty in Justice Werner Olson's court to a drunk driving charge and was released on payment of $59 fine and $8.25 costs.

Benson was arrested Monday at 5:30 p. m. by Deputy Sheriff John Frederickson after Benson's car had collided with a car driven by Walter Kashom of Escanaba. The accident occurred on US-241 near the entrance to Pioneer Trail park.

REICH LOSES 600,000

London, Sept. 6 (AP)—Germany has lost 600,000 soldiers in killed, wounded and prisoners of war in western Europe alone in the last three months. Robert Sherwood, director of the overseas branch of the OWI, declared tonight in an ABSIE (American broadcasting station in Europe) broadcast directed to Germany.

REAL BATTLE FOR GERMANY IS UNDER WAY

flight in motion.

The Third army, after having sent reconnaissance patrols across the border last Sunday and into Germany itself, first met strong resistance at Jouville, eight miles northwest of Metz, Gallagher said. There the Germans, their backs against the last-ditch defenses of the fatherland, met the Americans with 88s, mortars and anti-tank guns.

Bridgehead Enlarged
Below Metz a bridgehead, now firmly held, has been thrown across the Moselle, and Americans poured across this last great water barrier before Germany short of the Rhine itself, and pointed a new threat from the east bank toward the fatherland and the Siegfried line.

Hitler's forces are expected to be able to offer nothing more than heavy delaying actions while the border defenses of the Reich are strengthened. His main problem is manpower with which to hold the great bulging Allied line which runs several hundred miles over France, Belgium and Holland.

While the Third army bears the brunt of the frontal assault on the Reich, the British Second and American First armies are driving toward other border defenses.

Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First army is pushing ahead swiftly on a broad front from three bridgeheads over the Meuse and south of liberated Namur in Belgium. His total bag of prisoners from the Mons pocket in the last three days jumped to 25,000, including two major generals, and raised the First army prisoner total since D-day to 154,000.

Canal Bridges Intact
This brought to more than 230,000 the total prisoner haul of the American First and Third armies. Patton's forces having captured 76,000.

The British in Belgium have taken Malines and Leuven (Louvain) on the Albert Canal, the latter town with its bridges intact. In view of this, a German communique indication today of a German stand along the canal lacked weight. The Germans claimed they had seized the only Allied position across the canal, and Berlin radio added that Germans still held positions in Antwerp. Allied headquarters said Antwerp, as well as Brussels, was being mopped up rapidly.

Canadians and Poles, who, with the British are assaulting the pocketed German troops on the Pas de Calais coast—official estimates placed the number of trapped Germans there at about 50,000—have reached Cassel, ten miles northeast of St. Omer, which the Poles have occupied. They also have reached Marguereuse.

between the besieged ports of Boulogne and Calais.

The great surge forward by the British and Canadian and the two American armies had placed a severe strain on the supply situation.

Gallagher wrote that officers with Patton believed if his forces could have continued their pace, the Third army would have driven straight into Germany before the Nazis had time to prepare Moselle defenses or positions on the Siegfried line.

Continual rain has hampered the Third army, which has been unable to use fully its great air superiority.

BY GEORGE BRJA

Rome, Sept. 6 (AP)—French troops pursuing German forces trying to escape from the debacle in southern France have swept through Chalon-Sur-Saone and tonight were believed approaching the communications center of Dijon, 38 miles to the north.

Dijon is 110 miles north of Lyon and nearly 300 miles from the beaches where the Allied Seventh army landed just over three weeks ago. It is less than 90 miles from the Belfort gap into southwest Germany.

Only about 60 miles separated the speeding French column from Americans of Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's U. S. Third army, who last were reported at Bar-Sur-Seine in their push southeastward from the Paris area. A junction of the French-American forces would trap every German soldier remaining in southern and western France.

American troops rolling up the east bank of the Saone occupied the village of St. Germain Du Plain, eight miles southeast of Chalon-Sur-Saone, after a brisk fight with Nazi rear guards.

Allied headquarters offered no information on the position of the main German force, which last was reported fleeing toward Dijon.

In their drive to Chalon the French swept through numerous towns, including Cluny, famed for its lace; Sennecey-Le-Grand, and Le-Villars. Their advance was only slightly opposed. American forces occupied Lons-le-Saunier, nearby.

Menominee.—Nick Machalk, 64, a well-known resident of Hermansville, died at 11 p. m. Saturday in St. Joseph's hospital of injuries suffered August 7 when he fell from the roof of a garage of the IXL company in the village. CED PLANNING FOR BUSINESS

Private Industry Wants To Avoid Pitfalls Of Twenties

BY PETER EDSON
Daily Press Washington Correspondent

Washington—Government planners in general and advocates of a planned economy in particular have taken a good bit of kidding and cuffing since the early days of the New Deal. Kidding anyone who thought the cut-throat law of supply and demand could be improved on has been the smart thing to do. Congress even went so far as to legislate out of existence the National Resources Planning Board.

But now comes CED, the Committee for Economic Development, an organization of business men interested in maintaining the American free enterprise system, admitting that the rule of dog eat dog may not be so hot for the postwar period and sponsoring a series of long-range studies to see if some planning can't be done to reach and keep high levels of production and employment, after the reconversion and transition from war to peace have been achieved.

Here are some of the things this group of business men think they should know about if the mistakes of the 1920's and 1930's are not to be repeated.

First is the matter of knowing that jobs come from business, and appreciating that it is necessary to provide adequate incentives for starting new enterprises. What makes a man want to go into business for himself, anyway? Is it for his health, a desire for self-expression, a social consciousness of the need to provide payrolls, a desire for independence, or the crass motive of wanting to make more money?

Whatever the incentive, the end result makes jobs and the need of the times is to induce as many people as possible to put their money into new business, rather than to buy bonds and sit back, which is relatively safer and a lot less trouble. The problem then becomes one of providing the right incentives by proper limitation of government controls over business, labor and agriculture, the tax and patent law systems. Obviously, it will take planning to effect those changes.

In this scheme of things, the development of a constructive tax policy is of top importance, and this is the second of the CED long-range research projects. It includes the study of state and local as well as federal taxes, and how the tax burden should be distributed so it will both encourage consumers to buy and stimulate producers to make things. That gets into planning a properly balanced system of profits taxes, licenses, estate taxes and the elimination of both interstate and international trade barriers.

A third great field of research for planning comes under the head of minimizing business fluctuations and unemployment. In other words, how to level off the booms and the busts, providing protection for both employer and employee without featherbedding or making useless work. Also how much or how little government aid there should be in the form of public works, protective tariffs, trade agreements, social security, and so on.

Youths Given Ride After Wreck, Steal Benefactor's Auto

Kalamazoo, Sept. 6 (AP)—Two youths who allegedly repaid their benefactor who offered them a ride after their car overturned by taking his own auto away from him at gun's point, were under arrest today.

Sheriff Otto K. Buder identified the two as Walter Beck, 18, and Kalamazoo and Raymond Baker, 18, of Otsego. The sheriff said Leonard Ekema of Route 1, offered Beck and Baker a ride after their car overturned north of Kalamazoo Tuesday. Ekema drove them to near Otsego where one of them forced him from the car with a gun, the sheriff said.

Negaunee Postoffice Choice Withdrawn

Washington, Sept. 6 (AP)—Nomination of John J. Hauserman for postmaster at Negaunee, Mich., was withdrawn from the senate yesterday by President Roosevelt. The action coincided with a protest by Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) that the veterans' preference law had been violated in nomination of Hauserman in preference to John P. Collins, a war veteran who, Ferguson said, ranked first in the Civil Service grading.

Submarine Is Lost With Kimmel's Son

Washington, Sept. 6 (AP)—Lt. Commander Manning Marius Kimmel, 31, son of Rear Admiral Husband E. Kimmel, is missing in action with his submarine, the Ro-40, and his crew of at least 65 officers and men.

The Navy announced loss of the year-old submarine today, bringing to 28 the number of American submarines lost since the war started.

WATER GOES BIG

New York, Sept. 6 (AP)—It must have been the heat. An average of 1,054,000,000 gallons of water a day was consumed in New York City in August.

small business, since firms with less than 100 employees account for 45 per cent of all the jobs in the United States. As a post-war problem that means simply that taxation, capital, labor and other restrictions working against small business have to be revised to encourage more individuals to start new business.

Add all these together and you come to the conclusion that states men and business men really know few of the answers in the quiz book labeled the science of economics. But the folly comes in thinking that the essential conditions for maintaining a high level of productivity and employment can be created without deliberate planning some place along the peacetime pathways of unhampered enterprise. Smart business men realize that, and are doing something about it.

PLANTING LAKE TROUT IN TEST

Fish Are Reared In U. S. Hatchery At Charlevoix

Whether commercial fishing in Great Lakes waters is helped by plantings of hatchery-reared lake trout may be determined through a projected six-year program which gets under way at Charlevoix federal fish hatchery this week.

Some 150,000 fingerling lake trout are held at the hatchery for fin-clipping and planting in Lake Michigan in the vicinity of the Fox Islands before September 15. The Wisconsin conservation department is cooperating in the marking operations.

In the future, states bordering Lake Michigan will pay rewards of two dollars per fish for legal and undersized lake trout which show fin markings, taken by fishermen. Data collected may provide needed information concerning survival ratios of artificially-reared fish and their migratory habits.

The program contemplates similar marking and planting operations to be carried out in Wisconsin hatcheries and waters next year with assistance of Michigan authorities. The marking and planting operations may be continued through 1946 and during the three years to follow there may be no taking of lake trout allowed during the spawning seasons.

Claims are made that artificial propagation and planting of lake trout is wasted effort. The six-year experiment may provide the answer, as well as showing whether Michigan is paying for fish that migrate to Wisconsin waters, or vice versa.

The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service also is cooperating in the program.

NO CHEAPER CARS

Kansas City, Sept. 6 (AP)—M. E. Coyle, vice president of General Motors corporation, told the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce today labor rates paid by industry must be passed on to the consumer and "it is my impression you people are not going to be too happy over the new car prices that must apply when production is resumed."

Veteran Skipper Of Lakes Is Dead

Harbor Springs.—Capt. Charles Wright, 84, for many years a Great Lakes skipper, died at his home here Monday night. He had lived alone and had suffered a heart attack and was found on the floor.

His last service on the water was on the Pennsylvania car ferry Wawatam across the Straits of Mackinac. He was born on Beaver Island, the son of Charles Richard Wright, who was the first merchant and first postmaster at St. James. His father was a representative to the legislature from the island which at that time was a county.

The family moved to Little Traverse, now Harbor Springs, when the Mormons began to dominate the island. Young Charles became a druggist, a jewelry man and later a lake captain. The father returned to Beaver Island after the assassination of King Strang of the Mormon colony.

Surviving are one sister, Kitty Nelson of Harbor Springs, and one son, C. B. Wright of Chicago.

Heavy Frost Was Expected Today

Heavy frost southwest and west of Escanaba and light frost within the city limits were predicted for this morning by Henry Hathaway, U. S. Weather Bureau observer. Killing frost was expected in some of the low places.

Small craft warning signals were put up yesterday, and commercial fishermen remained ashore during a severe blow on the bay.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Thad Phibbs' Formula for Fun

Thad Phibbs has a theory of enjoyment all his own. The more tired he is from working at the War Plant, the more fun he has pitching horseshoes with the boys these summer evenings.

"That's because I feel that I deserve it," Thad says simply.

And I wonder if he isn't right. I wonder if we don't enjoy things in proportion as we know we've earned them. Is a little relaxation ever more welcome than after a hard day's work? Do we appreciate our little pleasures quite as much as when we know in our hearts we've done a good job well?

From where I sit, that's one of the things this wartime strain has taught us. We're all of us working hard at our jobs, doing our level best to pull our weight. And we're learning the little rewards, the simple pleasures—a home-cooked meal, a glass of beer with friends—are more welcome now than ever ... because we've earned them!

The Men Doing Our Fighting are Doing a Lot of Thinking

They are wondering what will happen when they return. Will there be jobs and opportunities to get ahead?

Michigan, under Republican leadership, already has the answer to that question.

The present Republican administration has created the office of Veterans' Affairs to help and advise veterans. Large appropriations have already been made to aid veterans in emergencies and for an adult education program. Michigan's rehabilitation arrangements are unequalled by any other state in the union.

At a recent state convention, the American Legion men who know what is being accomplished have gone on record as follows:

"Be it resolved that the American Legion in Convention assembled at Grand Rapids, Michigan, August 11, 1944, go on record as commending the Governor and members of the 1944 Michigan State Legislature for their sincere interest in the returning veterans and the comprehensive program presented which includes the creation of the Office of Veterans' Affairs to provide veterans with information, advice, direction and assistance through coordination of programs and services in the fields of education, health, vocational guidance and placement, together with mental care and economic security; to also establish community counseling centers for referral to all Service Agencies."

New Escanaba Ore Dock On Disposal List Of Agency

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is studying its plant, machinery and equipment holdings in Delta county to determine if, when, and how they can be used for civilian production, it was learned in Washington.

RFC holdings in the county total some $19,000,000, representing all the investment in the Escanaba ore dock project.

Jesse Jones' officials will study engineering reports, cost studies, photographs, maps, plant layouts, and information on taxes, utilities, raw materials, and convertibility to civilian production in efforts to ascertain how much of these holdings can be disposed of.

Generally speaking, the value of these holdings will be determined by their reproduction cost, their cost of adaptation to civilian production, and the cost of wartime installations having no peacetime value.

The problem of making industrial war production facilities available for peacetime use may be more complicated than it appears. At present it is understood that the current operators of government facilities will have first opportunity to obtain them, either by purchase or lease.

However, members of congress are fostering legislation to invalidate options on government war plants. The ostensible purpose of these congressmen is to make certain that big corporations do not have preference in obtaining facilities, but actually, some authorities believe, such a law would react against smaller war contractors also.

It is possible that the government may have to subsidize private operation of some plants.

The War Production Board estimates that only two-fifths of the government's facilities can be used for peacetime production. Of the $15,000,000,000 worth of facilities, WPB claims only $6,000,000,000 worth might be placed in civilian production. Location, unavailability, and other factors will make the balance unavailable for this purpose, WPB officials explain.

More Men Like Norris Needed In Postwar Era

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington—We in America can be proud that George Norris was one of us. Even in this moment of world turmoil, his death makes a mark. It makes us pause and remember what he stood for.

It makes us think of what the coming victory can mean if only we've learned just a little from the man who died out in McCook, Neb., among his own people. That was one of the remarkable things about Norris. In all his years in Washington, he never lost touch with his origins.

He came from the humblest, plainest people. He grew up close to poverty, and he never forgot how wide the gulf is between the rich and powerful and the plain men and women of this earth.

Supporting his deepest convictions was his skill at the business of legislation. He had the know-how. There were good reasons why the correspondents in the Senate Press gallery voted him the most useful member of the senate in 1941.

Was Never Demagogic

We saw him at work there on the senate floor day after day, following with rare persistence the course of the legislative stream. He could be sentimental but never demagogic. His voice, rarely raised in oratory, carried the weight of knowledge and conviction.

Whether you went to him, you came away with a deep sense of the American past and the character that has come out of it. He walked always like a countryman, in solid, plodding steps that were the same in marble halls as in the furrows he'd ploughed as a boy. His face looked as though it had been carved out of oak by one of those shrewd journeyman wood carvers who roamed New England and the frontier west.

When you first talked with him there was something between him and you—a reserve, his skepticism, a patient blankness that might have been self-protective. If he was self-protective, if he was very tired, as he often was, or if his melancholy sat heavily on him, his mood might not lighten. But ordinarily he came to life and his sweet, guileless smile shone out.

Shrewd men, quick-witted men, clever men seeking the prizes in the battle for power, often were scornful of Norris. They called him a fake. They could not believe in his goodness. They thought he must be out for something for himself.

But he was not a fake. He was as selfless a man as this self-seeking time is likely to see. Out of his congressional salary he saved, after educating his children, hardly enough to keep him in his last years.

TVA His Monument

As far as monuments go, no one need worry about perpetuating Norris' fame. This capital is filled with marble cenotaphs and granite statues. But Norris has a living monument in the Tennessee Valley Authority, which was possibly the greatest achievement of his career.

If it had not been for his long, courageous fight at the end of the last war, nothing like TVA would have been possible. When he stood on the floor day after day to prevent Muscle Shoals from being given away—it would have amounted to that, so big were the stakes—the fight looked hopeless. That was at the beginning of the boom, when the magic of "prosperity" was to spiral into infinity.

Norris lived, however, to see his dream come true. Norris Dam, in the TVA system, was named for him. He went down there and saw it in all the beauty of its setting.

But more than that, he lived to see the TVA idea take hold on people's minds. Out in his own Missouri Valley Basin, the demand is growing for a MVA that will curb the floods, create power, attract industry, stop erosion. It would do, in other words, what TVA has begun to do in the Tennessee valley.

We're going to need Norrises in the era we're coming into. We're going to need to remember his courage, his strength, patience and persistence.

FISH CEILINGS NOT PLANNED

OPA Expects Prices To Gradually Decline To Normal Levels

Ceiling prices for Great Lakes fish will not be established at this time, the Office of Price Administration announced.

The pricing agency said it is hopeful that the present downward trend of fishermen's prices will shortly result in retail prices that will reflect the 1942 level of prices. By law, OPA cannot reduce fresh fish prices below the 1942 level.

The agency noted, however, that the usual seasonal rise in prices is expected during the Jewish holidays and the fall and winter months, but felt that from present indications this rise would be no more than normal.

If prices should rise substantially above 1942 levels for any appreciable time, OPA said that it was prepared to take appropriate and immediate action.

A survey conducted by OPA, and the Fish and Wildlife Service and Office of Coordinator of Fisheries, of the Department of the Interior, covered the 1942 level of prices as well as recent price trends of Great Lakes fish and showed that the fishermen's prices for nearly all species of lake fish have declined sharply below last year's level.

In July of this year fishermen's prices for a number of species such as blue pike, lake herring, chubs, pickerel and perch were at or below the prices of July, 1942. Most of the other species were selling from a fraction of a cent to two or three cents a pound above their July 1942 price. Only white fish and lake trout, representing one-sixth of the production of American fishermen on the Great Lakes, were selling at prices substantially higher than their 1942 prices, OPA said.

Present retail prices on fresh water fish are reflecting the lowered fishermen's prices, and as long as this trend continues it will not be necessary to protect consumers by establishing ceiling prices, OPA said.

The Constitution of the United States is derived from the Articles of Confederation; the political institutions of the British colonies; and various state constitutions created during the Revolution.

It Will Be Short But Sharp

VOTERS of America, who will go to the polls in November, to elect a president of the nation, are being treated to a stream-lined wartime campaign, such as may never be duplicated in these United States. In other presidential campaigns of the past, by Sept. 1, the big guns of the opposing political parties were in full action. In the present campaign, by general agreement, the political barrage is being held back until late September, thus confining the battle for ballots to a period of about five weeks.

Republican leaders are charging that President Roosevelt broke this agreement by delivering a political address from the Bremerton navy yard, upon his return from a jaunt to Pacific bases, but Candidate Dewey is largely holding his fire until he undertakes a swing through a portion of the nation, late in this month.

In Michigan it has been announced that the active campaigns of both the Republicans and CIO dominated New Dealers will swing into action about Sept. 25. So from that date forward until election day, on Nov. 7, the people of this state can expect action, and lots of it.

The psychology of a short and sharp war-time campaign is based on the belief of leaders of both major parties that public interest can be weaned from the present intense interest in the developments of World War II, by an effort that does not detract too much from support of our war program and at the same time offer ample opportunity for the presentation of the full political picture.

Nazis Fear Russians

NEWS from the European war theater indicates that the Germans are putting up stiff resistance against the advancing Russian armies but offering what looks like only rear guard action to the American and British troops as they blitzkrieg through Belgium and Holland. This surprising development is arousing speculation over whether the Nazis are planning the course of the war in this manner. The Nazis are fearful of the vengeance the Reds would inflict upon them for their ruthless murdering of civilians in Russia, Poland and other countries. It would be the better part of wisdom on their part, consequently, to stop, if possible, the Russians from entering Germany while permitting the other Allies to do so.

By allowing the American and British troops to occupy Germany proper and surrendering before the Red armies advance deep into the Reich, the Nazis leaders probably reason that they could thereby exact easier peace terms and save much bloodshed.

Such a plan might save the Germans from Red reprisals but it is unlikely that they would be able to arrange a peace that would exclude the Moscow government. Stalin will have something to say about how Germany should be dealt with after the surrender.

The U. P. Potato Show

WHILE the Upper Peninsula State Fair has gone by the boards due to wartime conditions, the Upper Peninsula Potato Growers association remains undaunted and will stage its annual show at Escanaba Oct. 24 to 26.

The decision to continue the exposition in wartime reveals a tremendous amount of enthusiasm among the leaders of the industry. During the past several years, Delta and other counties of the Upper Peninsula have made great strides in the growing and marketing of potatoes. Yields have climbed steadily until some of the farmers are averaging between 500 and 600 bushels per acre, performances that cannot be excelled in much-publicized Maine and Idaho.

Continuance of the Upper Peninsula show gives encouraging signs that the farmers of this region will go into the postwar period with the determination to grow even more and better potatoes.

Sweden Denies Asylum

WHEN the German ship of state begins to sink, the Nazi rats will likely desert it and scurry to whatever refuge is afforded them. Unfortunately for Hitler and his ilk, the avenues for their escape from retribution are each day becoming fewer.

Switzerland recently indicated she would not offer the right of transit to German troops escaping from the death trap in Italy, and this stiff attitude would indicate that the tiny republic would be less interested in furnishing a hideout for the war criminals after the defeat of the Nazi armies.

Some months ago, the Allied governments warned the neutral nations against harboring those leaders guilty of fomenting World War II and committing atrocities against innocent people. The warning is being taken seriously for this week announcement was made by a high government official that Sweden would refuse asylum to criminal refugees.

There is a vast difference between criminal and political refugees. Switzerland, Sweden and most notably America have in the past prided themselves as being havens for political refugees from tyrannical rule in their homelands. This is a commendable policy in such instances, but it does not apply to the Hitlers, Goerings, Goebbels and other Nazi-Fascist cutthroats, who have destroyed political freedom instead of fighting for it.

Just where the Nazi leaders will go in an effort to save their necks is a question. Strangely enough, they might come to the Western hemisphere for Argentina still remains pro-Fascist and might be willing to harbor Hitler and his fellow criminals merely as an affront to the democracies.

Stands for No Fooling

THE Russians again display their usual penchant for realism by declaring war upon Bulgaria which, after fighting as an ally of Germany, has endeavored to get out of the war and assume a neutral role.

Bulgaria became an Axis satellite in the war against Britain and America, but steadfastly refrained from declaring war upon Russia, with whose fellow Slavs the Bulgarian people have long been friendly. Premier Molotov, in an official announcement, admitted there was some justification for weak Bulgaria's joining Germany when the Nazis were all-powerful, but he pointed out that Germany is now near defeat. The Russian official declared that Bulgaria's neutrality is merely a sham, for he charged that she is allowing German troops to escape from that country and is still furnishing protection to Nazi submarines and other shipping on the Black sea.

Russia bluntly tells Bulgaria that either she is for or against the Allied cause, and that she cannot enjoy a neutral position that favors the German foe. The plain-talking Moscow government does not fumble in its diplomacy such as the other Allies have done in their relations with Vichy, Spain and others.

BACK TO SCHOOL, YOUNGSTERS!

(Detroit Free Press)

The opening of the autumn school term won't mean, this year, the automatic return to the classroom of all of America's youngest generation.

The reason is, of course, the war. Youngsters in every State have left their studies by the thousands to take jobs.

Over-all there has been a drop of about a million in high school enrollment. In Michigan alone, as we noted the other day, the figure is considerably more than 100,000. In Sunday's Free Press a detailed picture was drawn of the various elements, along with the views of City, State and national leaders.

Obviously, this is a serious situation. Few youngsters who "quit school" ever return. Invariably they regret their decision by the time the responsibilities of developing maturity have made it impossible for them to go back.

This, then, is the time of year for parents and youngsters to sit down and decide whether high wartime wages are worth the price these boys and girls will pay later for having broken short their education.

If patriotism is the factor that invites them to continue at their jobs, they should be reminded that there is a higher patriotism involved in the case for their return to school.

It is part of good citizenship for the young to learn all they can in preparation for maturity. School is the place for youngsters.

MORE POPULAR THAN EVER

(Grand Rapids Press)

Evidence that thousands of Michigan residents are managing to enjoy outdoor recreation despite the pressure of wartime duties and travel restrictions is provided by the conservation department's disclosures that attendance at state parks this year is averaging one-third more than in 1943 and that fishing license sales are running 10 per cent ahead of last year's figures.

The biggest increase in park attendance has been recorded at recreation spots close to populous centers. Attendance at remote parks in northern Michigan has declined sharply this year in comparison with 1943. With gasoline strictly rationed, with automobiles slowly wearing out and therefore no longer dependable for long trips and with travel by bus or train almost out of the question, weekend jaunts and short vacation trips have become increasingly popular.

The increased popularity of the parks located in well-populated areas by no means implies, however, that the state's investment in scenic spots in the remote areas of northern Michigan has been wasted. Michigan looks forward with justified confidence to an unprecedented tourist-resort boom after the war, a boom that promises to see every park in the state put to good use.

HOW DID IT START?

Q. How did the expression "straws in the wind" originate?

A. John Selden, English political writer 1584-1654, wrote: "Take a straw and throw it up into the air . . . you may see by that which way the wind is."

Q. Is "dunk" a good word, and where did we get it?

A. It's a good American colloquialism.

The Round Table

BY RAYMOND MOLEY

A good deal of the talk we hear about policing Europe after the war seems to assume that the whole problem is Germany. The need to keep an eye on the small nations of Europe, especially the Balkans, is just as acute.

Long before Hitler's rise, when Germany was under non-armament restrictions, German influence was preparing to make the tools of war in adjacent small countries.

In some instances, the matter went beyond preparations. In 1920, the manufacture of the more efficient airplane motors was prohibited in Germany by the Versailles Treaty. A high official of the German Democratic Government of that time confided to a German business man that motors were being made for the General Staff in Czechoslovakia, in plants which were partly German-owned.

—NEEDS RUMANIAN OIL—

It is altogether clear that without access to the essential materials of her neighbors, Germany could not have risked war at all. Her need for Rumanian oil, Swedish ore and the Czech industrial plant are all illustrations of this dependence. Fascist Italy was the source of the ideological infection which helped to produce Nazism in Germany. War and preparations for war in Europe cannot be localized. The infection crosses all boundaries.

Some of the small war-breeding nations, such as Rumania and Bulgaria, are now rushing to cover. They hope to use the necessity of the Allies to beat Germany quickly as a means of getting an easier peace. Rumania deserves no more sympathy than Germany and no less sympathy. It gave Hitler indispensable oil, instituted shocking persecutions in Rumania and its armies inflicted shocking cruelties in Russia. The plea of Bulgaria is almost comic. After helping Germany slaughter tens of thousands of our real Allies in Greece and Yugoslavia, the Bulgarians now try to bargain with the Allies to retain some of their stolen territory. There is hardly a small nation in Europe that should not be rigidly policed for many years, and the time to start that job is now.

—ROBOT OPENS POSSIBILITIES—

The fact that the next war could be started by a small country, with terrific force and by some wholly surprise element, intensifies the problem of the peace-makers. The robot has suggested hundreds of possibilities to blood-thirsty minds. The decisive weapon in another war might be made in a back room or a wood-shed. Military men now know that traditional military defenses are gone forever.

The great danger is that the peace this time will be made, as it was before, by men whose concepts are shaped by what happened in this war. But as soon as the last gun is fired, the techniques of this war will be dead. The threats to future peace will be everywhere, and preventive measures should be much broader and more intensive than any responsible statesman has yet suggested.

Wonder if any of the war correspondents have stop watches? They might catch a German doing that four-minute mile the sports editors dream about.

We'll have super-gasoline after the war. That will call for improved education for back-seat drivers.

It came from the German verb tunken, "to sop (bread, etc.), in a fluid."

Q. Why do we speak of a place if ideal perfection as "Utopia?"

A. In 1516, Sir Thomas More wrote the book, "Utopia," describing an imaginary island commonwealth with perfect laws, government, and politics. He was beheaded in 1535. Said he to the headsman, "Wait till I put aside my beard, for that never committed treason." He coined the name Utopia from the Greek ou plus topos, meaning "not a place."

Q. Why do we speak of an eating place as a "cave?"

A. We borrowed the word from the French, in which language it means, "coffee; a public place where one purchases coffee and other drinks." But in French cafes no food is served. Hence, we have corrupted the meaning.

"Cafeteria," literally, does not mean "a self-service restaurant." The word was borrowed from the American Spanish, in which it is pronounced: kah-fay-tay-REE-ah. Its literal meaning is "coffee shop."

Q. A weekly magazine states that "the name penicillin comes from penicillate which means fingerlike." Right?

A. Wrong. Penicillin (pronounced: PEN-i-SILL-in) is from the Latin penicillu, "a little pencil." The adjective penicillate means "like a pencil." Pencils, originally, were sharp-pointed brushes. The mold that produces penicillin is covered with microscopic tufts.

V-DAY CELEBRATION

Whether to celebrate victory when it comes, or to spend the day in solemnity and prayer, is a question that is already being discussed. The closer approach of victory in Europe makes the decision imminent. If there is to be a national policy established as to the conduct of our people on V-Day, it should be decided early.

It is apparent from the discussion already under way that the majority of those who have expressed themselves believe that victory attained at so dear a cost should not be an occasion for drunkenness and revelry.

There is also a large element of the country which has not expressed itself one way or the other—but it can be assumed from this that the less vocal of our citizenry perhaps will see nothing wrong in a genuine public expression of the relief and joy they feel at the cessation of hostilities.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT—There is one factor which should not be overlooked in considering victory celebrations in this war. It is: In celebrations of war victory comes piece-meal and only after the last battle will victory be complete.

When the Germans are defeated in Europe the Japs will still be in the war. If we should celebrate the defeat of the Nazis, that celebration would be under way at a time when our sons in service are dying in the Pacific.

NATURAL REACTION—On the other side of the picture is the natural inclination to celebrate the impending downfall of Hitler and his hated gang. Such a victory is immensely important. It will bring a great sense of relief and elation to the people of this country and to the peoples of every other country except Germany and Japan.

The desire to express this elation should not be considered as evidence of poor taste. After all, did not the people of the United States join in spirit with the great celebration that marked the liberation of Paris?

News correspondents wrote reams of copy describing the greatest event in that city's history since it fell to the Nazis. They did not spare telling the story of the celebration despite the knowledge that only a few miles away the battle for France still raged, a battle in which French, American and British were dying.

THE SOBERING SIDE—There are many, of course, who look upon Paris as the sink of iniquity and the Parisians as the dregs. Here again, however, there is a contradiction—for these same Parisians were responsible, through their underground, for powerful victory force that rid their country of the hated Nazis.

It is sobering to think that these people of France, who have seen their sons and fathers and brothers killed by the Nazis, their women and children starved and mistreated, can still celebrate.

Such a celebration as that which gripped Paris becomes understandable. The yoke of the oppressor has been lifted, the heel of the enemy has been withdrawn in flight. The years of darkness behind the people could look to the future with healthy joy and lightened hearts.

HOW ABOUT US?—It is a natural question for America to consider whether to celebrate victory or not. Twice in the past 25 years we have been drawn into war against our wish, and have sent our armed forces to fight enemies who have not set foot up-

INTO THE PAST

10 Years Ago—1934

Supt. Ray E. Cheney announced that the enrollment in the Escanaba Public Schools for this year totals 2,808. This is an increase of 71 over last year.

Miss Marian Berg of Menominee was the guest speaker at the luncheon meeting for Delta County Democratic women held yesterday at the Sherman Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence LaCombe were parents of a son, born Thursday morning.

20 Years Ago—1924

Miss Marie Scheriff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Scheriff, and Miss Vernice Paquin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Paquin who received scholarships to St. Mary's Academy are leaving this morning for Prairie Du Chien, Wis.

Gunnar Back, who is teaching at Watson, is spending the weekend in this city.

A ten pound son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Francis A. Peterson yesterday morning. The child has been named Carleton.

Mrs. Cora Hicks Brace has resumed her piano work in the city and will receive applications for lesson periods during the next two weeks.

25 Years Ago—1919

Miss Genevieve Mary Carroll became the bride of Mr. Francis W. Harrison of Pittsburg, Penn., yesterday.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. George McDermott, First Avenue South.

A set-aside party was held for the teachers of the Escanaba public schools Friday evening.

From September, 1935, to August, 1944, the automobile industry in the U. S. delivered war products valued at 19 billion dollars.

The automobile industry delivered aircraft engines totaling 297,200,000 horsepower from September, 1939, to August, 1944.

Sixty-five yards of nylon, enough to make approximately 250 pairs of women's stockings, are required to make one standard 24-foot parachute.

on our continent. Majority feeling in this nation has been that war is a grim business to be prosecuted relentlessly, ended quickly, and the leaders of war brought to justice and punished.

We fought in defense against forces of aggression that became personal to us only as the war unfolded. In the grim days after Pearl Harbor we were sobered and a little fearful—but we did not dig the rubble for our dead, or watch friend and kinsman shot down like dogs at the side of graves they were forced to dig.

There we were spared. Only through the tales of returning men in the armed forces was this brought into our consciousness—just as it was in 1917-18.

BUT NOT FORGET—The celebrations that follow the victories of our fighting men are natural to expect, and those who believe these occasions should be one for sober silence should observe them in that way. But for the mass of people victory will bring an outward show of happiness which cannot be denied.

There is only one thing the mass of people must not and should not be permitted to forget. The toll of war for our country already exceeds that of World War I and is steadily mounting. Before the Japs are subdued it will go still higher.

Delta county alone has 52 men who have been killed in action or died in service so far. Besides this there are 23 missing in action and 14 who are prisoners of war. And most heart-touching of all are the additional hundreds who will come home wounded.

It is these men and the ideals for which they fought which must not be forgotten—whether we celebrate or not.

The Lyons Den

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK—Sgt. Robert Hopkins, son of Harry Hopkins, served in the African, Sicilian and Italian campaigns. He was in England when he learned of his father's illness and of the death of his brother, Pfc. Stephen Hopkins, at Kwajalein. The dazed, grief-stricken youngster busied himself with work. He spent two months working day and night along the ports of England, then, tired and lonely, he went to London and visited the Red Cross Club, where he was introduced to a girl, Brenda Stephenson, a Lancashire lass, daughter of a hydraulic engineer. . . . They took long walks together, and talked. He saw her every evening. They were in love.

THEY BECAME engaged on May 27th. It wasn't until one month after their meeting that someone told her that the baby-faced, 21-year-old Sergeant with the stars on his campaign ribbons, this youngster who had refused to be furloughed home until the war is over, was a son of Harry Hopkins. . . . Mr. Hopkins will attend their wedding in England, as soon as the war ends.

IN THE MEANTIME, Sgt. Hopkins is entwined in all the red tape which is incidental to the marriage of an enlisted man overseas. He made an application for permission to marry, which must be approved by his commanding officer. He wants his bride to wear a white wedding dress, but she won't because of the clothes rationing. And because engagement rings are almost impossible to obtain, he had to send for one from America. The ring finally arrived last month. It reached young Hopkins in France, and he still is trying to find a way of presenting it to his bride-to-be, the Lancashire lass who is in England.

HENRY WALLACE will make a speech at Madison Square Garden on Sept. 21. . . . Hank Potter, the film director who has been piloting planes and teaching RAF men how to fly these past few years, is returning to Broadway. He will direct the dramatization of John Hershey's "A Bell for Adriano." . . . The Medal for Merit, which was presented to only one civilian before a halt was called in its further award, will be given soon to a group of civilians for their contributions towards the winning of the war. . . . Before Donald M. Nelson left on his trip to the Orient, he was offered a choice of the top Washington jobs when he returns.

THE MOVIE companies yesterday submitted offers for "Anna Lucasta," the all-Negro play which opened to such favorable notices. . . . Pat Hitchcock, the youngster who won her acting honors in "Solitaire," arrives from Hollywood today to start rehearsing for "Violet." . . . Because of the practice of investigating large expenditures in political campaigns, the money which was used to defeat Roy Acuff, the hillbilly singer who almost became Governor of Tennessee, was spent judiciously. A local leader was asked how much money it had cost to beat Acuff. "Only $25,000," he replied, "and I raised $37,000 of that myself."

THE UNIFORMED Prison Officers Ass'n., CIO, at Ossining, will release their plea that if Hitler be sentenced to a life term Sing Sing shall be the place. "We have just the spot to bed him down," they insist, "and chores that will delight the world and historians." . . . Britain's Capt. Eric Ambler, now making the British film, "Know Your Ally—America," will use as his musical theme a combination of five and Toscanini. . . . David Selznick sent Neil Azenew a 15 page telegram asking whether cuts should be made in "Since You Went Away." Azenew replied: "Since You Went Away" okay as is, but suggest cuts in wire."

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

(Lt. Col. Robert S. Allen now on active service with the Army)

Washington—Don't be surprised if gnarled, wise old ex-Governor Herbert Lehman soon steps out as head of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration. His resignation is expected soon.

Officially, Lehman will probably resign in order to campaign in New York State for President Roosevelt's re-election. But actually, there are personal reasons. He has been very much upset by the death of his son in a plane crash in England. Also, he is still handicapped by the broken leg he suffered when he fell down the marble steps of the British Embassy in Algiers last winter.

In addition, Lehman has been disappointed over the limited scope given to UNRRA. So far, one important area where relief is badly needed, namely Italy, has been denied to his organization. This is because Italy is an ex-enemy country, and it was previously agreed by the forty-four nations which established UNRRA that no relief should be distributed to an ex-enemy country without the consent of the forty-four members of the United Nations Council.

And on that council are such enemies of Italy as Yugoslavia and Greece, whose territory has been occupied by Italian troops and who do not relish spending any part of their money or even Allied money to aid Italy.

If and when Lehman steps down, it may not be easy to find a successor. Most people don't realize it, but the ex-New York Governor is not the representative of the United States on UNRRA—he is the representative of all countries. Actually, Assistant Secretary of State Dean Acheson is the American representative, while Lehman was elected to be the impartial, neutral chairman for all the United Nations.

—HILLMAN AND DEWEY—

It happened, but was not reported, at the Congressional probe of the CIO-PAC: Congressman "Took" Gathings of Arkansas: "Is it true, Mr. Hillman, that your organization, the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, contributed $5,000 toward the election of Thomas E. Dewey to the post of District Attorney in New York in 1937?"

Hillman: "That is correct." Gathings: "Your attitude toward Mr. Dewey seems to have changed since then." Hillman: "Oh no, not at all. I am ready to support Mr. Dewey again. I would support him with another $5,000 for the job of District Attorney."

—CENSORSHIP OF ROBOT ORDEAL— British officials don't air their feuds in public as officials do in this country, but there has been increasing restlessness in high British circles over the arrogant, short-sighted policy of British Information Minister Brendan Bracken.

On his shoulders rests much of the blame for the unfortunate wane of British prestige in this country in recent months. Especially, Bracken is blamed for failure to let the American public know the terrific sacrifice the British people are making during the robot bombing, a sacrifice comparable if not greater than that they experienced in the awful autumn of 1940 during the "Battle of Britain."

Since Dunkerque, obviously, the British people have not changed. They have stood up to punishment in 1944 exactly as in 1940. But thanks to the secretive policy of Brendan Bracken, the American public has no conception of it.

London today is in a practical state of siege. Millions are homeless. Millions must leave the city. Yet Bracken endeavors to keep this a secret even from the rest of Great Britain. When the real story of the robot bombardment is told, the world will shudder and sympathize as never before with Britain's ordeal.

American newsmen in London have been anxious to write the story, have tried repeatedly to get it by the censor. But Minister of Information Brendan Bracken has put his foot down. Apparently he doesn't think the story of eight million people standing up to night-and-day bombing, with the largest city in the world being demolished all around them, is news.

Brendan Bracken, when called before Parliament, always has a glib explanation. He can quote the number of laudatory articles published in this American paper or that. But privately he speaks contemptuously of the American press, and quotes to the British Cabinet President Roosevelt's derogatory remarks about American newspapers as justification for his muzzling of the correspondents.

Illustrating the results of Bracken's policy, one British writer reported that the American people were callous about London's plight, when the real fact is that the American people have never been permitted to hear the full story of that plight.

You can't expect a face to look too cheerful in the early morning—after it has been slept in all night.

Getting wrong numbers makes you wonder how phone operators ever succeed at their calling.

We read "elastic defense" is being employed by the Germans. Don't tell us they're down to their last slingshot.

General Patton certainly got a break, being handed an army without any Sunday drivers.

It's just about time for the second crop of straw hats—many of which will be picked off by the wind.

V-DAY SIGNAL PLAN IS READY

Three One-Minute Blasts
On City Siren Will Mark Victory

Three one-minute blasts of the city steam plant siren, with 30-second intervals between, followed by the sounding of whistles and bells throughout the city, will be the local signal that marks the cessation of hostilities in Europe, it was announced yesterday by Escanaba Police Chief Michael Ettenhofer.

As soon as the word is flashed to the police the order for sounding the signals will be given, and other plans for a sane celebration of victory over Germany will be carried out in the city. It is expected there may be some informal celebration, but the citizenry is also expected to conduct itself soberly, since the war with Japan will continue.

The ministerial association, headed by Rev. Alun O. Jones, is planning observance of the day with special prayers and services.

The Escanaba Chamber of Commerce is delivering bulletins to all merchants in the city asking that they suspend business when the news of victory comes.

If word is received after 1 p. m. stores will close for the rest of the day and all the next day; if at night, on a Sunday or holiday, the closing plan will be carried out the following day. Drug store prescription service is expected to be maintained.

By order of the Michigan liquor control commission, all state stores, licensees and enforcement agencies have been notified that all taverns, state stores, distributors and licensees must suspend operation for a period of 24 hours. This suspension is to start immediately after sounding of the signal marking cessation of the hostilities.

Worry Clinic

With Case Records Of
A Psychologist

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE D-243: Julia T., aged 28, is an attractive housewife. "Don't you think that personnel managers would get more work out of their male executives if the wives were given some consideration?" she asked, in an indignant voice.

"My husband has just learned, for example, that the yearly executive meeting is to be held at a pleasure resort. Instead of at the home office as usual."

"That would probably be a good innovation, except for the fact that the wives of the men are definitely not permitted to go with their husbands, but a number of single girls are to be there."

"My husband and several of the other executives requested permission to take us wives along but received a definite veto."

"The personnel manager has also suggested that the company hold a monthly party for which all expenses are to be paid by the company, but again the wives are not allowed to attend."

"Four Personnel Methods."

"As the party is to be held after working hours and is to last till late at night, my husband refuses to attend."

"When asked for his reason, he told the personnel director that the little free time he has during the heavy war schedule belongs to his wife and family."

"Is it wise for a personnel director to discourage normal recreation between married men and their wives, and to place stumbling blocks in the road of marital happiness?"

"It seems to me that the encouragement of happy marital conditions would help increase the morale of the working force."

Correct Personnel Strategy

Julia is far smarter than the personnel director whom she describes.

She is quite right in saying that men from happy homes have a better morale and perform better work, than do those who are maladjusted at home or in imminent danger of divorce.

It is very poor personnel technique to throw stumbling blocks in the path of happy marriages. To debar wives from company parties and to take married men away from their families to attend distant conventions at pleasure resorts, where single women are their only female companions, is the height of folly.

Nowadays, alert personnel directors are realizing that their duties extend beyond the factory or office where they function, reach into the homes of their workers.

A Test For Good Employers

A star salesman, for example, is a product of many years of training and experience, but he can be ruined by a hostile wife.

Companies will bring their salesmen into weekly or monthly meetings for peping up their enthusiasm and giving them better sales psychology.

But if the wives are meanwhile ignored and if the wives do not obtain some similar good sales psychology about the products their husbands are to sell, then wives can throw cold water on the enthusiasm of even a star salesman and break his morale.

Instead of treating intelligent modern wives as butterflies who need only a bridge party or shopping trip to keep them contented during a business convention, it is far better to give them some of your business strategy so they can help buoy up their men folks.

Send for my 100-point "Test for Employers," enclosing 3c stamped envelope, plus a dime. It is being used in the most progressive personnel departments, so try it out in yours.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long 3c stamped, addressed envelope and a dime to cover typing or printing costs when you seek personal advice or one of his psychological charts.)

Same Story, More
'Apps,' Less Tires

Delta county's September quota of grade one passenger tires will be 326, it was announced Thursday by C. Emery Snyder, chairman of Delta county war price and ration board. This number is 52 less than the quota for August.

With 419 applications left over from last month to be taken care of from this month's quota, the tire situation for Mr. John Q. Public appears disheartening.

The national quota of these tires is 350,000 under the quota for August it is reported by the Escanaba district OPA office. Manpower still remains the big problem. Due to the great demand for heavy tires, for both army and civilian uses, workers are being transferred from the manufacture of passenger tires to the manufacture of truck tires. The Escanaba district office reports that more re-capping is being done now.

With the scarcity of grade one tires, dealers are recommending that the motorist have his tires re-capped when it is at all possible to do so rather than try to get new tires.

B. & P. W. Club
Dinner Speaker

"How We Rate Ourselves" was the subject of an interesting talk given by John J. Bartella at the meeting of the Escanaba Business and Professional Women's club, held at the Hotel Perket in Bark River Tuesday evening.

"We all have a part in the community and its affairs, whether it be as individuals or as an organization," Mr. Bartella said. "As an organization and as individuals, we are rated on the services performed for the community and for our participation in war fund drives and Red Cross drives and various community activities," he said.

In addition, Mr. Bartella said, the individual has a political responsibility in the community. Women this year have an excellent opportunity to influence the vote this fall, he maintained, saying that the more women who become interested in good, clean politics, the better the country will be.

Civic Cooperation

Participation in church activities, civic and fraternal organization activities and the measure of participation also determines the rating of the individual in the eyes of his fellow citizens. "How do you rate with your friends and in your homes?" he queried, saying that the manner in which the individual conducted himself among his family and his friends in many instances determined his real worth.

Mr. Bartella outlined the following qualifications which the employers of today look for in prospective employees . . . good appearance, good health, personality, neatness, tact, a pleasant speaking voice, imagination, understanding, cooperation, enthusiasm, self-confidence, loyalty, punctuality and poise.

Mr. Bartella's talk was interspersed with many humorous anecdotes and was greatly enjoyed by the members.

New Members

Mrs. Vida Sayers and Mrs. Ardyth Schuster, newly elected members of the club, were introduced. Willis Teasley chairman of the evening's program, presided. Other members of her committee were Caroline Nystrom and Clara Strom.

ATTENDANCE IS CUT 37 PUPILSLarge Decreases Found
In First, Twelfth Grades

Attendance in the Gladstone public school system has fallen 37 pupils in comparison with last year, according to enrollment figures obtained yesterday from Supt. Wallace Cameron.

This amount will be reduced somewhat during the next week, experience has shown.

The main loss is in the senior class where there is a drop of 17 in comparison with the number in the senior class of last year and a drop of 20 if compared with the junior class enrollment of a year ago, and in the first grade which had 100 a year ago and only 78 this year.

Some of the losses were made up mainly by increases in the 2nd, 7th and 8th grades.

The enrollment figures:

Grade	1943	1944
Kindergarten	69	67
First	100	78
Second	94	99
Third	52	59
Fourth	43	46
Fifth	44	42
Sixth	52	47
Seventh	46	50
Eighth	49	61
Ninth	98	93
Tenth	81	79
Eleventh	73	69
Twelfth	70	53

Everything was going along smoothly for so early in the year, it was reported by Supt. Cameron. Improvements are being made in the gymnasium and are not completed so the gym is not in use at the present time.

Local People

The Schoolcraft - Alger health department is recruiting 400 blood donors for personnel of the State Health Department who will be in Manistique at the Elks Temple September 11-15. Persons wishing to give a pint of blood for plasma are asked to call the local health department office and express their preference of time. Hours will be from 9:30 a. m. to 11 a. m. and 1 p. m. to 2:30 p. m. on those days.

JUNIOR VARSITY GAMES BOOKED

Alma And Central Grid Teams On Schedule Of Wolverines

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 6 (AP)—For the first time in Athletic Director H. O. (Fritz) Crisler's seven-year tenure at Michigan, the Wolverines this year have mapped a schedule of junior varsity grid games, booking four dates: two each with varsity eleven at Alma and Central Michigan college.

Both the Alma contests will be played on the Scots' home field while both tussles with the Chippewas are slated for Perry Field here.

Dates were arranged, Crisler said, to coincide with Michigan varsity games, the J. V.'s playing while the first stringers are away and the "B" squad appearing at home on days preceding Wolverine home games. The schedule:

Sept. 23—At Alma.
Sept. 29—Central Michigan.
Oct. 7—At Alma.
Oct. 13—Central Michigan.

Piloting the Michigan junior varsity is Assistant Coach Art Valpey, who has been in charge of the Wolverines' "White" reserve squad since the opening of summer practice nearly two months ago.

Valpey's squad has stood up as about a 60-man outfit since the first practice call. No cuts are planned, though the best performers will continue to "graduate" periodically to Crisler's "Blue" varsity squad.

Creation of a junior varsity schedule at Michigan fulfills a two-fold purpose, Crisler said, helping Alma and Central Michigan pad out incomplete schedules while at the same time affording actual game experience for Wolverine squadmen who otherwise would see no action except in scrimmages against the varsity.

Rain today in the Wolverine practice camp spoiled Crisler's plans to put his first stringers through their first intensive session on pass defense, forcing a postponement of the aerial work to Thursday.

Further drills leading up to Michigan's opening game here Sept. 16 against the Iowa Hawkeyes will be approximately half on offense and half on defense, Crisler said. Workout for the past two weeks have been almost entirely concerning offensive angles.

Will Do 40 M.P.H., TOO — To Play Spartans

East Lansing, Sept. 6 (AP)—Ralph H. Young, athletic director at Michigan State college, said today that arrangements had been completed for the Michigan State football team to play the University of Kentucky at Lexington October 7.

The agreement fills one of the holes left in the Spartans' slim schedule when Carnegie Tech dropped plans to complete this fall, but leaves M. S. C. with one less home game. The Carnegie Tech game was to have been played in East Lansing November 18.

The contract with Kentucky calls for two years of competition, the Kentucky team to play at East Lansing next year.

Young said he was negotiating with West Virginia and Lehigh for games October 21 and 28, and sought one of them for East Lansing. Both of those schools also were left with schedule vacancies by Carnegie Tech's withdrawal.

Halfback Tommy Colella counted the Rams' touchdown on the second play from scrimmage, breaking off right tackle for a 60-yard dash. Fullback Walter West converted with a place-kick.

The Rams picked up two more points on a safety midway in the second period. Ken Steinmetz, trying to kick from behind the goal line, fumbled, tried to run the ball out, and was nailed behind the line by Steve Pritko for a safety. The game did not count in the National football league standings.

Shutout Clinches Flag For Brewers

Milwaukee, Sept. 6 (AP)—Julio Acosta let St. Paul down with three hits tonight as the Milwaukee Brewers chalked up a 6-0 triumph that gave them their second straight American Association pennant. The victory came in the first game of a doubleheader.

The Green Bay Packers lost an exhibition game to the Washington Redskins at Baltimore Monday night, 20-7, but Packers fans need not be unduly concerned about the strength of the Bays. It was the first game of the season for Green Bay and the third for the Redskins. Sammy Baugh was in his usual good form and pitched two touchdown passes. The deepest disappointment was the performance of Ivy Comp, whose passing was far below last year's form. In the big league, an ace passer is an essential for success and if Comp should fold up this season, the Packers would be hard hit. However, this was only the opener and there is reason to expect Comp to regain his form. He was injured against the Redskins and may be out of action for a week or two.

He revealed the other day that the new league is well financed.

The Tribune sports editor and promoter of many athletic features has pointed out that professional football is bound to expand and that the National league should welcome the kind of competition the new American league will offer in the matter of bidding for player talent and public support. It will be strictly ethical competition. Ward reported, and will serve to crowd out of the field fly-by-night and unethical promoters who would do harm to professional football.

Under the present National league rules, a player drafted by any team in the league must sign a contract with that club at the offered salary or stay out of professional football. The player himself has virtually no voice in the matter. The new league will offer him a choice. The result naturally will be a stronger attraction for grid stars to enter professional football.

Communication

SPORTSMEN AND POACHING

Sept. 3, 1944.

The Editor, Escanaba Press, Escanaba, Mich.

Dear Sir:

Several days ago I noted an article in one of our daily papers, that had its' origination in your paper, The Escanaba Press. This article concerned all Sportsmen's clubs, and had special significance to the clubs in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan. The subject, violations of fish and game laws, and the inactivity of sportsmen's clubs.

First, you have adopted a rather unfair attitude towards these organizations who are most assuredly hampered in their efforts by the many restrictions regarding transportation, the loss in membership due to the call to arms, and the beckoning of many to essential jobs in war industry in downstate industrial areas. The Conservation Department of our great state has also found the same reasons detrimental to their efforts in carrying out their policies in general. In short, any co-operation between the clubs and the Department has been cut to a minimum.

Second, just how anxious has the press been at any time to really promote the affairs of the sportsmen's clubs and their policies?

In those good old days when all one needed to purchase game and furs was just money. The Northern Michigan Sportsmen's Association saw it fit and proper to hold an annual meeting or convention at which get-together all the clubs who were affiliated, had the opportunity to discuss and compare their game and fish problems.

These conventions were a huge success, delegates from all parts of the U. P. were in attendance. As a delegate, I was fortunate to attend at least eight meetings.

In very many of the cities or towns wherein this group convened, the most conspicuous by absence were representatives of the press from those cities or at least nearby. A few years ago our little town of Mass was honored to be host to the Sportsmen. It was a test as to whether a small community was favorable for such a convention, and it proved successful inasmuch Mass II. in the heart of the deer-hunting in the U. P. and is not ashamed of the fishing opportunities at hand. This meeting although attended by the Director of the Conservation Department, P. J. Hoffmaster and practically every important man in both the fish and game departments, received so little consideration in all the newspapers it may as well have been left out entirely. The only paper to give it the publicity it deserved was our own weekly and I wrote the article myself. I am therefore stressing the lack of interest by the press at least in the U. P.

Our club, The Northwoods Sportsmen's Club, needs no introduction to the majority of clubs in northern Michigan. Several years ago, previous to our entry into the present conflict, we enjoyed a membership of about 250 members. This year we have 60. We lost the cream of our organization to the armed services, and to essential industry away from home.

Those who remain, are anxious to carry on. In former years, our fish committees made trips to various hatcheries to see personally what goes on, and our game committees were active in deer-yard problems, and also visited game refuges. That sort of educational work is all out at this time. Our club officials visited other neighboring clubs, we invited conservation department heads to our meetings to explain to us the workings of their various departments. That too is restricted due to the allotment of gas and rubber.

As to offering cash rewards, or any other kinds of rewards for information leading to the arrest and conviction of violators, is not in our books. The Northwoods Sportsmen's Club has always advocated conservation department heads to our meetings to explain to us the workings of their various departments. That too is restricted due to the allotment of gas and rubber.

Not that all examinations are like that. There are conscientious doctors who don't take it for granted a ringman is in top shape just because he has muscle lumps on his arms and stomach ridges resembling a venetian blind, and do their best to find flaws.

How About Managers? But such examinations don't go inside a man's skull to discover if he has all his marbles and if his brains have been pounded lop-sided. That's where the psychiatrist comes in. By a little study of the speech and actions of fighter and a report on his history the doctor can, to some extent determine whether his clinic subject is hearing only bells that actually are ringing.

If Mr. Greene wants to go a little further he might suggest examining boards for some of the managers who exploit fighters who obviously have no business continuing in the profession. By finding out whether such managers would stick pins into cats or the firecrackers to a dog's tail they could pretty well decide if they would send a punch-wearer stumbling into a ring to get his face lifted, one punch at a time. It seems there still is too much of the "they can't hurt us" attitude in the boxing game.

Eliminate Accidents Not that his idea is a cure-all, as he realizes that even a clinic checkup couldn't prevent all accidents. We saw one ring tragedy in which the victim died from a blow which collapsed a lung, and his examination could prevent such an injury, or detect the possibility.

However, that more rigid examinations might eliminate many accidents is highly probable. Down through the years we have watched many pre-fight examinations, and in some instances a deceased chicken in a butcher shop has received a more thorough going over by a suspicious housewife than the fighter was given.

The medico would peer into the fighter's eyes, tune in on his chest a few seconds with earphones, rap have been the president for the past six years. You may gather from it that my statements dwell on local conditions, and I do not profess to know what goes on in points too distant from home. As to me, I too, believe your references to the conditions stated in your newspaper articles, are pretty close to your home.

Several years ago, the district supervisor of the conservation department in this area, was transferred to your district. I am referring to my good friend, Danny Raess, who if given the proper help required to police such a large territory, will surely rid the district of all violators, big and small, and that is true with every supervisor in any district.

Nick Lukkalla, President, Northwoods Sportsmen's Club, Mass. Michigan.

Detroit Beats Chicago 3-2 In Hot Flag Race

Chicago, Sept. 6 (AP)—Roger Cramer, 35-year-old veteran of 15 major league seasons, continued his batting spree by hitting a triple and a single tonight to lead Detroit to a 3 to 2 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

The triumph enabled the Tigers, for a second straight night, to pick up a half-game on their pennant rivals, moving them to within a game and one-half of the league-leading New York Yankees and a game of the St. Louis Browns.

NAVY FOOTBALL STOCK BOOSTED

Academy Will Follow 4-Year Competition Rule Of NCAA

BY JOHN F. CHANDLER

Annapolis, Md., Sept. 6 (AP)—The United States Naval Academy announced today that it would follow the four-year competition ruling of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, thereby making half a dozen former Navy stars eligible for another season on an already so-stocked football powerhouse.

At its January meeting in New York, the NCAA voted to waive for this year the three-year rule, but until today there was no indication that the academy would go along with the broadened policy.

The announcement, coming in a brief statement from Rear Admiral John R. Beardsall, academy superintendent, in a mediatedly boosted Navy grid stock several notches since it permits four 1943 regulars and two members of the 1942 team who still are in school to play with the varsity.

The four 1943 players, all of whom gained All America honorable mention, are Hal Hamberg, one of the year's great passers, who came to Navy from the University of Arkansas; Tackle Don Whitmire, former Alabama University ace, a mainstay of Navy's line; and two former Princeton players, Center Jack Martin and Halfback Ben Martin.

In addition, Dave Barksdale and Marshall Steves, who were sidelined last year after playing in 1942, became eligible. Barksdale, who came in from U. of North Carolina, was quarterback, and a brilliant blocker, and Steves played guard.

Philadelphia, Sept. 6 (AP)—Ike Williams, Trenton, N. J., lightweight, won a 10-round split decision tonight over Sammy Angott, of Washington, Pa., former NBA lightweight king, in a punch-packed bout before 11,568 fans in Shibe Park. The crowd paid $34,251.62. Williams weighed 135, Angott 140.4.

Better Physical Exams Good Idea

Boxing Game

BY WHITNEY MARTIN

New York, Aug. 18 (AP)—Abe Greene, president of the National Boxing Association, takes a step in the right direction in proposing a more thorough physical examination for fighters, although he might be putting the sport in peril in suggesting a psychiatrist be included on the examining board. They might get some skeptical guy who believes anyone who voluntarily goes into a ring to get himself battered around must be a little barmy, and would ban them all.

Mr. Greene's statement shows he is fully aware of the evils of the game and is determined to do what he can to erase them, and he appreciates the ludicrous situation which sees a pug labeled blind as a bat and suffering from everything but intelligence in one state, and ruled a 1-A physical and mental specimen in another.

Not that his idea is a cure-all, as he realizes that even a clinic checkup couldn't prevent all accidents. We saw one ring tragedy in which the victim died from a blow which collapsed a lung, and his examination could prevent such an injury, or detect the possibility.

However, that more rigid examinations might eliminate many accidents is highly probable. Down through the years we have watched many pre-fight examinations, and in some instances a deceased chicken in a butcher shop has received a more thorough going over by a suspicious housewife than the fighter was given.

The medico would peer into the fighter's eyes, tune in on his chest a few seconds with earphones, rap have been the president for the past six years. You may gather from it that my statements dwell on local conditions, and I do not profess to know what goes on in points too distant from home. As to me, I too, believe your references to the conditions stated in your newspaper articles, are pretty close to your home.

Several years ago, the district supervisor of the conservation department in this area, was transferred to your district. I am referring to my good friend, Danny Raess, who if given the proper help required to police such a large territory, will surely rid the district of all violators, big and small, and that is true with every supervisor in any district.

Nick Lukkalla, President, Northwoods Sportsmen's Club, Mass. Michigan.

Chicago, Sept. 6 (AP)—The stock market today experienced its worst decline in nearly a year under a broad wave of selling started by an acute attack of reconversion jitters.

Many industrial and rail leaders at the close were down 1 to around 4 points and volume of 1,470,260 shares was the largest since July 17. Against yesterday's $72.85, Bond and market makers also were hit by the liquidating move.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite had a record loss of 41 points, steepest decline since November 8, 1943. The industrial and rail averages each dropped 12 points.

BOND TURNOVER HEAVY

New York, Sept. 6 (AP)—Railroad bonds suffered a substantial setback today as security and commodity markets exhibited a high degree of nervousness over progress of Allied armament drives and attendant thoughts of early peace and business unsettlement.

Losses in the carrier section ranged from major fractions to 2 points and in some cases more, and turnover in individual issues was large.

Trading was heaviest in more than 6 weeks with sales aggregating $8,987,000 compared with $5,672,100 on Tuesday. There were upwards of 115 individual issues losing a point or more and an equal number giving up major fractions. On the railroad side were found a fair number of high priced issues bought by investors at small advances. These included Public Service Electric & Gas Co., Alabama Power Co., Santa Fe, Union Pacific and Columbia Gas Co., U. S. governments were steady.

Heaviest losers included bonds of the Rock Island, St. Paul, New York Central, New Haven, Seaboard, St. Louis-San Francisco, Baltimore & Ohio, International Great Northern, Northern Pacific and International Telephone.

Antwerp 54, strong the day before, gave up 3 1/2 points and small declines. Defense mark loans extended previous gains moderately. Brazilian bonds were lower.

met I do value the sense of taste, and we've eaten enough meals in private homes and small-town restaurants over here to realize that it's all true about the French culinary genius.

They simply have a knack for making any old thing taste wonderful, just as the British have a knack for making everything taste horrible.

The other night we were talking about the beautiful women of Paris—as who doesn't?

One fellow said the women here were the most beautiful in the world.

But I said no, that wasn't true. You see women in America and England who are just as beautiful as any in Paris. But it seems that here the percentage of good-looking women is higher than in other countries.

And another fellow said no, that wasn't it either. He thought the ratio was approximately the same in America and England and France. But in Paris a bigger percentage have the gift of getting themselves up to look devastating.

And I guess that's it.

We thought there were a lot of people on the streets those first two days. But you should have seen Paris a few days later, when the whole populace began to come out. By mid-afternoon it is almost impossible to drive in the streets because of the bicycles. They take up the entire street, as far as you can see. The sidewalks are packed.

It's like Christmas shopping time at home.

Within three days Paris was transformed from a city crackling and roaring with brief warfare into a city entirely at peace. With three days Paris was open for business as usual, and its attitude toward the war reminded me of Cairo after its threat of danger had gone.

As usual, those Americans most deserving of seeing Paris will be the last ones to see it, if they ever do. By that I mean the fighting soldiers.

Only one infantry regiment and one reconnaissance outfit of Americans actually came into Paris, and they passed on through the city quickly and went on with their war.

The first ones in the city to stay were such nonfighters as the Psychological Warfare and Civil Affairs People, Public-Relations men and correspondents.

I heard more than one Rear-Echelon soldier say he felt a little ashamed to be getting all the grateful cheers and kisses for the liberation of Paris when the guys

Even after two and a half years of war writing there still is a lot I would like to tell. I wish right now that I could tell you about our gigantic and staggering supply system that keeps these great armies moving.

I'm sorry I haven't been able to get around to many branches of service that so often are neglected. I would like to have written about the transportation corps and the airport engineers and the wire-stringers and the chemical mortars and the port battalions. To all of those that I have missed, my apologies. But the army over here is just too big to cover it all.

I know the first question everyone will ask when I get home is: "When will the war be over?" So I'll answer even before you ask me, and the answer is: "I don't know."

We all hope and most of us think it won't be too long now. And yet there's a possibility of it going on and on, even after we are deep in Germany. The Germans are desperate and their leaders have nothing to quit for.

Every day the war continues is another hideous blackmark against the German nation. They are beaten and yet they haven't quit. Every life lost from here on is a life lost to no purpose.

If Germany does deliberately drag this war on and on she will so infuriate the world by her in-

Gas Utility Has Second Highest Month In History

Home canning and other conditions during the month of August boosted the consumption of city gas to 5,480,000 cubic feet, second highest month in the history of the gas utility, it was announced yesterday by City Manager George E. Bean.

Besides the home canning angle the increase in gas consumption is believed to reflect better economic conditions locally, and perhaps the high cost of wood for cook stoves. The availability of gas who broke the German army and opened the way for Paris to be free were still out there fighting without benefit of kisses or applause.

But that's the way things are in this world.

This is the last of these columns from Europe. By the time you read this, the old man will be on his way back to America. After that will come a long, long rest. And after the rest—well, you never can tell.

Undoubtedly this seems to you to be a funny time for a fellow to be quitting the war. It is a funny time. But I'm not leaving because of a whim, or even especially because I'm homesick.

I'm leaving for one reason only—because I have just got to stop. "I've had it," as they say in the army. I have had all I can take for a while.

I've been 29 months overseas since this war started; have written around 700,000 words about it; have totalled nearly a year in the frontlines.

I do hate terribly to leave right now, but I have given out. I've been immersed in it too long. My spirit is wobbly and my mind is confused. The hurt has finally become too great.

All of a sudden it seemed to me that if I heard one more shot or saw one more dead man, I would go off my nut. And if I had to write one more column I'd collapse. So I'm on my way.

It may be that a few months of peace will restore some vim to my spirit, and I can go warhorsing off to the Pacific. We'll see what a little New Mexico sunshine does along that line.

Even after two and a half years of war writing there still is a lot I would like to tell. I wish right now that I could tell you about our gigantic and staggering supply system that keeps these great armies moving.

I'm sorry I haven't been able to get around to many branches of service that so often are neglected. stoves, contrasted with the wartime scarcity of electric stoves, may also be a factor.

The highest month for city gas consumption on record was in August, 1930, when a total of 5,860,000 cubic feet of gas was sold. That also was one of the highest years, for a total of 57 and one-half million cubic feet of gas was produced in 1930.

Although August 1930 was the highest month for gas consumption, August 1944 was the highest in point of gas customers in Escanaba.

City records show that in 1930 there were 2,150 gas customers, while at the end of last month there were 2,294—an increase of 144 customers.

While the number of customers has increased, the amount each has to pay for gas has been reduced in the past 14 years because of lowered rates.

For example, in 1930 the customer paid about $1.85 per 1,000 cubic feet of gas, and his average annual bill was about $36. Now the average rate per customer is $1.50 per 1,000 cubic feet of gas, and his average annual bill is $25.10.

The increase in the use of gas for cooking has not meant a decrease in the use of electric stoves. To the contrary, the number of electric units has been steadily increasing until the start of the war and now totals 550 electric stoves and 80 electric water heaters.

Cost to the city in materials and labor for manufacturing city gas has increased since the start of the war, but the gas rate has been kept at its pre-war level.

Perhaps this accounts in part for the increasing use of gas.

This year the gas utility will just about "break even," and would show a loss except that its operation is combined with that of the city steam plant. Combined operation of the two utilities has made it possible to reduce costs for both.

human bullheadedness that she is apt to be committing national suicide.

In our other campaigns we felt we were fighting, on the whole, a pretty good people. But we don't feel that way now. A change has occurred. On the Western front the Germans have shown their real cruelty of mind. We didn't used to hate them, but we do now.

The outstanding figure on this Western front is Lieut. Gen. Omar Nelson Bradley. He is so modest and sincere that he probably will not get his proper credit, except in military textbooks.

But he has proved himself a great general in every sense of the word. And as a human being, he is just as great. Having him in command has been a blessed good fortune for America.

I cannot help but feel bad about leaving. Even hating the whole business as much as I do, you come to be a part of it. And you leave some of yourself here when you depart. Being with the American soldier has been a rich experience.

To the thousands of them that I know personally and the other hundreds of thousands for who I have had the humble privilege of being a sort of mouthpiece, this then is to say goodbye—and good luck.

More than 173,000 sick and wounded patients of the United States and Allied forces were evacuated by military planes in 1943.
